

STORY PROBLEM #1

Student A attends Saint Joseph Academy, where teachers educate the student's heart as well as the mind. The environment is peaceful and safe, class sizes small, and educators and staff are very dedicated. Student B attends a public school in Lenawee County, where the moral and spiritual growth of a child is not taught, and prayer and reflection is not allowed. Student C, who attends a public school outside the district, is in the same situation as Student B, except student MEAP scores are typically 30 points lower than at Saint Joseph Academy. So, which student will likely receive a better education, have more positive self-esteem and be more prepared for life?

The answer is easy as A-B-C.

A child is a whole being. A child's mind cannot be separated from his or her soul. Therefore, integrating the spiritual with the secular makes a student better equipped to confront the world.
